BOATS AWAIT AQUATIC SEASON

High and dry in private storage racks, boats along the lakeshore await the aquatic season on Okanagan Lake and the much yearned-for return of Four Seasons summer fun after the long drawn-out winter. The lake is currently eight-tenths of a foot above operating lake level, and will be lowered even more to take advantage of the expected storage flow indicated by record to near-record high March 1 water equivalents precipitated by well above average snowpacks at all elevations in the Okanagan Basin watershed. Depending on how fast snowpacks melt this spring, boat owners might well find a new inland use for their craft.

Danes And Norwegians 'Greedy, Callous' - Davis

VANCOUVER (CP) — In a fast-paced speech today, Environment Minister Jack Davis charged that Atlantic salmon are becoming an endangered species because of "the greed of the Danes and the callousness of the Norwegians."

—Called for the United States peninsula of Point Roberts to be made into an international park.

—Announced special charges for U.S. pleasure boat owners "for the privilege of fishing in our coastal waters."

—Said Canadian coastal waters will be "zoned" to control offshore oil drilling.

—Described as an ecological monstrosity the proposed Moran flood-control dam in the Fraser Valley of B.C.

—Predicted a good future for the B.C. fishing industry.

The speech, entitled "Our West Coast Fishery: a Progress Report," was described by Mr. Davis as a collection of highlights preceding a question-and-answer session.

He was speaking to the annual meeting of the United Fishermen's and Allied Workers Union.

Mr. Davis's charge that greedy Danes and callous Norwegians are ruining the last vestiges of the Atlantic salmon fishery was made as a comparison to the state of the British Columbia salmon fishery.

"The Atlantic salmon has all but disappeared from Western Europe. Runs on the East Coast of North America also have been decimated. The fishery on the world-famed Miramichi in New Brunswick has all but disappeared.

"True, some salmon still is caught in Newfoundland and Labrador, but even there the greed of the Danes and the callousness of the Norwegians and the Faroes are rapidly making the Atlantic salmon an endangered species."

The Faroe Islands, between Britain and Iceland, are under Danish control.

Mr. Davis said the record for salmon in B.C. "is remarkable by comparison."

"Our runs of Pacific salmon have held up remarkably well. But they have only held up because we have kept dams off the Fraser, because we have built spawning channels in a number of our coastal rivers, because we have kept industrial pollution under better control than has been the case elsewhere."

Fees paid by boat owners for fishing licences will be increasingly diverted into the building of hatcheries and spawning grounds, he added. Also, a special fee for B.C. licences, the amount varying with the size of boat, would be paid by Americans fishing in Canadian waters. This would go into a special fund to build hatcheries and spawning grounds in British Columbia.

Mr. Davis said the federal and British Columbia governments are making progress toward creation of a marine park in the Strait of Georgia. "We have raised our sights" to include islands as well as the sea bottom, he said.

Mainland China And Britain Will Exchange Ambassadors

PEKING (Reuters) — Mainland China and Britain signed an agreement today to exchange ambassadors and close the British consulate on Taiwan.

The agreement raised the level of diplomatic relations between the two countries to embassy status for the first time since the People's Republic of China was founded in 1949.

Vice-Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-Hua of China and British Charge d'Affaires John Addis signed the agreement, climaxing talks lasting more than a year.

The appointment of Addis as ambassador was announced at the same time.

The three-point agreement recognizes the government of the People's Republic of China as the sole legal government of China.

Mr. Addis: "The government of the United Kingdom, acknowledging the position of the Chinese government that Nationalist Chinese-held Taiwan is a province of the People's Republic of China, have decided to remove their official representation in Taiwan on March 13, 1972."

Raising the status of Sino-British representation after 22 years at charge d'affaires level follows a significant improvement in relations between the two countries since China's so-called Cultural Revolution ended in 1969.

It will also pave the way for exchanges of high-level state visits by British and Chinese government leaders, which were not diplomatically acceptable while representations were only at charge d'affaires level.

These could include visits to Britain by Chinese ministers, and possibly by British Prime Minister Edward Heath and Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home to China.

Mr. Davis said the record for salmon in B.C. "is remarkable by comparison."

Airlines Receive Threats But No Bombs Are Found

NEW YORK (AP) — Bomb threats telephoned to National Airlines offices in New York and Los Angeles and to Texas International Airlines in Albuquerque, N.M., forced searches and led to some delays in service Sunday. No bombs were found.

In New York, an anonymous caller telephoned three times warning that explosives would be placed aboard a New York-to-Miami jetliner and demanding that $500,000 in ransom money be paid at a remote beach.

Police said the caller did not say which flight or airport was involved so terminals and aircraft at Kennedy, La Guardia and Newark airports were searched by officers and airline personnel.

In a second incident, a National Airlines DC-8 flying from Los Angeles to Miami was searched during scheduled stopovers in Houston, Tex., and New Orleans, La., delaying its arrival in Miami by about an hour.

The caller to Texas International Airlines told officials that a bomb was planted aboard an airplane destined for Salt Lake City. He did not say which airline was involved.

The official said four planes heading for Salt Lake were diverted and three others, all belonging to Western Airlines, were searched on the ground. As in the other cases, no explosive was found.

Reds Launch Large Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces during the weekend made their largest number of attacks across South Vietnam in three weeks, while in eastern Cambodia, a new 5,000-man South Vietnamese drive made its first significant contact with Communist-command troops.

The South Vietnamese command reported 33 Communist-led attacks in Vietnam, almost half of them by rockets and mortars. More than half a dozen ground engagements were reported.

Wall, Part Of Roof Of Arena Collapses

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP) — One wall and a section of roof of the still-under construction arena and community centre building collapsed Sunday night. No one was injured.

Construction foreman Charles Parker said it would take about six days to rebuild the section that collapsed.

Mayor Peter Frankiw said an investigation would be held into the cause of the collapse.

There was no estimate of damage but construction officials said the loss was covered by insurance. The entire project is expected to cost $750,000.

Four Diplomats Leave Italy

ROME (AP) — Four East European diplomats left Italy Sunday and Monday on an order from the foreign ministry under accusation of political and military espionage.

Konstantin Janowski, head of the Polish consular section in Rome since 1969, left Monday. A Czechoslovak, Milos Dospiva, and two Bulgarians, Dimcho Vavov and Borislav Balchev, left Sunday. Dospiva had been the first secretary of the Czechoslovak embassy since 1968. The Bulgarians worked with the Bulgarian commercial office in Rome.

Queen Visits Coral Islands

MALE, Maldives Islands (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth arrived here today on the first visit by a reigning British monarch to this string of 2,000 coral islands in the Indian Ocean. The Queen landed after a restful four-day cruise from the Malaysian holiday island of Penang, last stop of her Southeast Asian tour.

Quebec Liberal Crosses Floor To Join Tories

OTTAWA (CP) — Raymond Rock, 49, Liberal MP for 10 years, crossed the floor of the Commons today "with no regrets" to join the Conservative Party.

Mr. Rock said he could no longer support the Liberal government of Prime Minister Trudeau.

Conservatives cheered and Mr. Trudeau grinned as the MP walked from his seat on the Liberal side of the House to shake hands with Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield.

Other Conservatives put their arms about him and led him to a seat beside David MacDonald, two rows behind Mr. Stanfield.

Mr. Rock is the second Liberal to defect to the Conservatives in the current Parliament. The other was Perry Ryan, MP for Toronto Spadina.

"In view of the difficulties the prime minister is in, I think we should co-operate with him," Mr. Stanfield said, savoring the moment.

The change brings the standing in the 284-seat Commons to: Liberal 149, PC 72, NDP 25, SC 13, Ind. Liberal 1, Independent 2, vacant 2.

CRITICIZES PROJECTS

Mr. Rock described himself in an interview as a "free-enterpriser" who feels the prime minister's office is "out of touch." He was critical of "activist" projects supported by government.

He wouldn't talk in detail about reports that he was switching because it appeared the Liberal Federation of Canada would back Rod Blaker, a Montreal radio editorial man, against him in a nominating convention as yet unscheduled.

Liberal sources said Mr. Blaker has been drawing heavy support in selling memberships in the riding association. Meanwhile, the nominating convention wasn't expected until April or early May—one of the latest in Quebec.

"Isn't that packing?" he said in his office, waving a list of Blaker supporters. "Hell find out that packing a convention is not winning an election."

"I'm going to take up that challenge and win this seat for the Conservatives," he said.

Geoffroy Arrives In Canada Today

MONTREAL (CP) — Fugitive murderer Yves Geoffroy and his wife are being flown home today from Spain, where they were arrested last week, Quebec Provincial Police said here today.

Inspector J. L. Melanson said Geoffroy and his wife, Carmen, sought in connection with his flight from St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary Dec. 24, are due aboard Iberia Airlines flight 971.

Reuter news agency quoted Mrs. Geoffroy as saying shortly before the plane left Madrid: "We are both returning to Canada voluntarily. I will stand by my husband."

He said the Geoffroys would be taken off the direct Madrid-Montreal flight ahead of other passengers. Geoffroy would be transferred by police car to QPP detention cells here and his wife taken to Tanguay women's detention centre, Insp. Melanson said.

The flight is due at 5:00 p.m. EST.

Geoffroy absconded while on a 50-hour pass that began Christmas Eve. He was serving a life sentence after being convicted of strangling his first wife.

Geoffroy married his mistress, Carmen Parent, 27, the day he was let out of the penitentiary. She is sought on four charges connected with his use of a fraudulent passport during his flight to Europe.

The Geoffroys were arrested in Barcelona in northeastern Spain a week ago after being tracked through London and Oslo by an international police search.

The Geoffroys were held in separate cells in the Barcelona city jail until they were released earlier today and brought to Madrid by private aircraft to meet the Montreal flight.

Family Allowance Within Quebec May Be Changed

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebec would be empowered to alter, within limits, the federal family allowances plan inside its borders under a new proposal made public today by Prime Minister Trudeau.

One limit would be that Quebec could get no more money out of Ottawa for family allowances than if the plan were administered solely by the federal authority as now.

And Quebec would have to put up at least 15 per cent of the combined federal-provincial amount spent for family allowances in the province.

Mr. Trudeau tabled in the Commons a March 9 letter to Premier Robert Bourassa of Quebec in which he said such a "very important change" in the federal position would have to be available to all other provinces.

He did not say, however, that the other provinces must approve his proposal before it could become operative in Quebec.

Italy Requests W. Germany Return Attilia Lazzeri

MUNICH (AP) — The Italian government requested today extradition from West Germany of Attilia Lazzeri, the housewife accused of hijacking an Italian airliner.

The Munich prosecutor's office said it has opened an investigation into the case because the hijacking of the Alitalia Caravelle twin-jet over Elba Saturday night seemed to violate some West German laws. But a paragraph of the West German legal code provides for a pending case to be closed if another country requests extradition of the suspect.

Two B.C. Persons Highway Victims

At least three persons met violent death this weekend in British Columbia, all on the highways.

James Kenneth Hincks, 17, of Langford, B.C., died when the car he was driving went out of control and hit a utility pole in the Victoria suburb of Colwood Friday night.

In Surrey Sunday morning, 34-year-old Bell Dolest of Surrey died when the car in which she was riding collided with a parked truck.

Harold R. Hall, 64, of Rock Creek was killed Sunday night when the car he was driving collided head-on with another car on Highway 3 near Rock Creek, east of Osoyoos in the South Okanagan.

Floods In Peru Have Killed 36

LIMA (Reuters) — More than 150,000 persons are reported homeless, at least 30 dead and about 200 injured in the month-long deluge that has swamped parts of Peru.

IN AVALANCHE

Dog Finds Buried Woman

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Zacho, a tracking dog, spent more than two hours sniffing the snow on the slope of Monte Rosa in Italy early today, then began digging furiously.

Two mountaineers said long metal probes into the snow where the dog was digging, then called up the slope.

"We've found something," John Laidlaw hurried down to join them as they found his wife, Margaret, 35, six or seven feet below the surface, but alive after being buried for 48 hours.

Mr. Laidlaw described the rescue today in a telephone interview with The Free Press.

"I had almost given up hope," he said, "I thought the chances of her being found alive were very slim. In fact, I feared that we might not find her body."

"But the rescuers kept telling me people had lived in avalanches up to 11 days. They said not to give up hope."

TOWN WAS CUT OFF

The Laidlows were trying to ski out of Macugnaga. They were three days behind schedule because the town had been isolated by repeated avalanches.

"People said the last death in the valley had been in 1951, so you are expected to take your risks," Mr. Laidlaw said. "On looking back, I guess we shouldn't have done it, but at the time it seemed the thing to do."

Skilling about 50 feet ahead of his wife and following three Italian girls, Mr. Laidlaw said he stumbled on the rough surface under the weight of his rucksack.

"At the same time I looked up the hill and thought I saw a big white cloud, but I didn't think anything of it. I removed my skis and walked to the girls and put down my rucksack and started back toward my wife to help her."

"Then I saw the avalanche. I told her to throw her skis away and run. She was moving faster but just as she got to the edge the avalanche came and took her away. I was probably only four or five feet away."

"I had to turn and run or I would have been caught."

During the day-long search Saturday, no trace of Mrs. Laidlaw was found, although a tracking dog was used. Then, for the Sunday search, a call went out for Alberto Bulgna, whose dog, Zacho, has a reputation for finding avalanche victims.

In Toronto, Mr. Laidlaw's father, Ernest, said he refused to give up hope.

"Perhaps a miracle will happen," he told his wife Sunday night.

They got word of the rescue at 3:30 a.m. today. At 6 a.m., they relayed the word to Mrs. Laidlaw's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Williston of Northampton, Mass.

"It was the answer to my prayer," Mrs. Williston told the Toronto Star in a telephone interview.

"When I heard the phone ringing at 6 o'clock I knew it must be good news. Mrs. Laidlaw wouldn't have called us that early unless it was."

NAMES IN THE NEWS

UBCM President Raps Bennett

Ernie Broome, president of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, accused Premier W. A. C. Bennett Saturday of "supreme arrogance" and "damned officious interference" in municipal affairs. Mr. Broome, a Vancouver alderman, criticized the premier following the introduction in the legislature Friday of a amendment to the Municipal Act which specifies that municipalities must use their $3 per-capita grant for ambulances, tourism and industrial development and for no other purpose. Mr. Broome said the UBCM was "completely opposed to Mr. Bennett putting any strings on the grant" and the amendment in "supreme arrogance on his (the premier's) part." "It's unworkable, untenable and damned officious interference," Mr. Broome said.

INDIRA GANDHI
... war on poverty

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi pledged Sunday to step up her war on poverty as her Congress party rolled toward absolute control of most of India's state legislatures. Conceding little to any opposition group, left or right, the prime minister's Congress party had clear majorities in five states and on the important New Delhi municipal council and was leading in eight other states from which substantial returns had come in from week-long balloting.

Len Marchand was nominated Saturday night as the Liberal candidate for the next federal election in the riding of Kamloops-Cariboo. Mr. Marchand is the current MP for the riding. He first won election in 1968, defeating former Progressive Conservative cabinet minister Dave Fulton.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim returned Saturday from talks in South Africa and said the United Nations' next step in President Makarios has agreed to place a quantity of recently imported Czechoslovak-made weapons under the periodic inspection of the United Nations peace force on Cyprus, informed sources said in Nicosia Sunday. This is a partial acceptance of one of the three main terms of an ultimatum to Makarios by the ruling Greek junta in Athens. The Greek ultimatum Feb. 11 demanded that the weapons "be placed without delay under the control and keeping of the UN peace force."

Marshal Lon Nol, Cambodia's chief of state, dismissed Premier Sirik Matak and the entire cabinet Sunday and indicated he may confirm his rule as all-powerful leader by proclaiming himself president. The party-paralyzed marshal switched from premier to chief of state three days ago. He told reporters Sunday he expects to abolish the job and shift its responsibilities to the new office of president.

Heido Rocha, a former policeman accused of belonging to the notorious Death Squad, was convicted of nine homicides and sentenced to 198 years in prison in a marathon trial that ended Saturday in Victoria, Brazil. During the trial, Rocha denounced the former police leadership of this coastal city north of Rio de Janeiro. Two other officers await trial. Victoria is one of the cities in Brazil where the Death Squad, a vigilante group of off-duty policemen who eliminate petty criminals, has been active.

Attilio Lazzari, the pistol-packing Italian woman who hijacked a jetliner to West Germany, was charged in Italy Sunday with abduction and illegal possession of arms. German police in Munich reported that Mrs. Lazzari, who observed her 55th birthday Sunday, was examined by a neurologist and found to be mentally sound. Italian authorities have asked for her extradition, the Germans reported.

George C. Wallace said Sunday he believes he will win Florida's presidential primary election, but Senator Hubert H. Humphrey contended that would have little impact on the race for the White House nomination because the Alabama governor is not a "card-carrying Democrat." Senator Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, battling to bolster a national campaign that shows signs of sagging, switched his position and announced he will disclose within 10 days all contributions made to his presidential bid.

Canadian Forces personnel Saturday completed the cleanup of 1,000 gallons of bunker oil spilled Thursday by the destroyer escort Gathenau in the harbor of Nanos Bay on the east coast of Vancouver Island. The mishap occurred as fuel was being transferred from one of the ship's tanks to another. A defence department spokesman said 125 servicemen worked on cleanup operations. At the request of the fisheries department, no chemicals were used. William Winesky, district supervisor for the fisheries department, said laboratory tests on two oyster beds in the area should be completed in two or three days. He said he believed only a small percentage of the oysters were affected by the spill. He said affected oysters will not be health hazards but may have a slightly unpleasant taste.

A campaign by three international unions and the Canadian Labor Congress to win back about 4,500 independent British Columbia unionists has fizzled out, at least for this year. Fred Mullins, president of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada, an independent Canadian union, noted in an interview this week that his union has survived the critical period when it could have been raided legally. Under the Labor Relations Act, the only time one union can apply to take over certification from another is during the 7th and 8th months of the target union's contract. Mr. Mullins' pulp workers were served notice last year that they would be subject to retaliatory raids, but the crucial months—January and February in this case—passed without a major assault.

Irving Enters Guilty Plea

NEW YORK (AP) — Author Clifford Irving and his wife, Edith, pleaded guilty today to federal charges of conspiring to defraud a publisher with a fake autobiography of billionaire reclusive Howard Hughes.

When Judge John Cannella asked the 41-year-old writer to describe what he did, Irving replied: "It was that I conspired to convince McGraw-Hill that I was in communication with Howard Hughes, when, in fact, I was not."

Conviction on the federal conspiracy charge could mean penalties of up to five years in prison and $10,000 fines.

Also scheduled to appear in court with the Irvings today was researcher Richard Suskind, who was indicted last Thursday on a variety of criminal charges after federal and county grand juries spent six weeks in a joint investigation of the 230,000 word manuscript that duped two major publishers.

First the Irvings go to federal court to answer an indictment charging Clifford, 41, and Edith, 46, with conspiracy and mail fraud. Suskind, 46, is named as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant in the federal indictment.

Then all three appear in State Supreme Court to answer a New York County indictment charging them with grand larceny, conspiracy and possession of forged instruments. A second county indictment charges Irving and Suskind with perjury.

In addition, Mrs. Irving still faces Swiss charges of forgery, counterfeiting and embezzlement in connection with her handling of three cheques totaling $60,000 that McGraw-Hill, Inc., intended for Hughes.

The indictments said Irving and Suskind thought they could sell a "bogus autobiography" because they believed that Hughes, 66, was either dead "or not of sufficient mental or physical capacity to denounce it."

Mayors, Aldermen, Trustees May Face Salary Controls

VICTORIA (CP) — Municipal and regional politicians Friday joined the growing list of groups in British Columbia on whom the British Columbia government may apply salary controls next year.

Amendments to the Municipal Act, introduced in the B.C. legislature Friday, include a clause that municipal politicians, including mayors, aldermen and trustees, shall not grant themselves increases in their indemnities greater than a provincially-set limit for the public service without taking such increases to referendum.

Sixty per cent of the owners-electors of a municipality must then support the increases over the limit for them to take effect. A similar clause applies to members of regional district boards.

The municipal politicians join civil servants, teachers, hospital workers, cabinet ministers and other members of the legislature against whom similar action has been taken, either by proposed legislation or by cabinet regulation.

Under the plan, which is similar for all groups involved, the government will set a certain percentage figure which will be the maximum percentage increase for provincial civil servants.

CABINET DECISION
The figure will be set by regulation of the cabinet under a section of the Revenue Act which gives the government power to limit expenses when it considers it necessary or advisable. A total of 47 amendments to the Municipal Act were introduced Friday in the omnibus bill.

One of them would remove the necessity for a municipality to give "suitable" social assistance to its "poor and destitute" and would instead require only that assistance be given subject to the provisions of the Social Assistance Act and other relevant legislation.

Titles in with amendments to the Social Assistance Act introduced earlier in the session which would give Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi "absolute discretion" over welfare rates and eligibility.

If a council wishes to give more assistance than is allowable under that act, which it may do under special circumstances, with approval of a two-thirds majority of council, the costs will not be shared by the provincial government.

POWER OVER LICENCES
Another section would allow a municipality to suspend the business licence of any business which has "sold, offered for sale, displayed for sale, or distributed to a person actually or apparently under the age of 16 years, anything that may be harmful or dangerous" to a young person's health or safety.

Deputy municipal affairs minister Jim Baird said the section is intended to apply to merchants who sell toxic sniffing substances to children, and could conceivably also be applied to cigarettes.

Peterson, Branca Have Experienced Some Prejudice

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Leslie Peterson and Mr. Justice Angelo Branca of the British Columbia Court of Appeal told a conference of ethnic groups Saturday that they, too, have experienced prejudice because of their origins.

Mr. Peterson, of Norwegian descent, said he received a letter last week which said: "You're not an English-Canadian, you're not a French-Canadian, why don't you shut up and go back to where you came from."

The attorney-general said the letter was in response to a recent statement he made about a bilingual labelling law on consumer products.

"I have objected strenuously to the imposition of bilingual language requirements in labelling and packaging on western producers who sell their goods primarily in western provinces," Mr. Peterson said.

Rutland Entertained At Fifth Annual Lions' Talent Show

THE FIFTH annual talent show Saturday night in the Rutland Centennial Hall featured different acts by 20 groups. Left, Richard Sawchuk, 11, talks to his dumpy, Alvin Tirk and Bruce

Bell, 10, played their guitars. Brian Kabatoff, 13, played the accordion. Adrienne Morlin, 14, presented a guitar solo. Prizes for instrumental solo, also vocal and guitar vocal were $20, $15, and

One of the youngest contestants was Grant Nicholas, 7, whose piano artistry won first prize in the instrumental solo class. The other two prizes went to vocalists Thomas Zubot, 14 and Kevin Bazzana 8.

Vocalist Kathy Leslie, 15, came first in the vocal and guitar vocal group. Other prizes went to guitarists Jack Falconer, 20, and Harvey Laboucan, 27. First in the duets and groups class was a folk

A husband and wife team, Doreen and Harvey Laboucan, were third. Merv Purnell won the novelty prize for his imitations. There were no age limits, and both professionals and amateurs entered. (Courier photos)

Abortions Increase Illegitimacy Falls

The number of therapeutic abortions carried out in South Okanagan Health Unit hospitals continues to increase and in 1971, the illegitimacy rate fell for the first time in 10 years.

According to the unit's annual report for last year, there were 205 abortions recorded in the five hospitals involved—Kelowna, Penticton, Princeton, Oliver and Summerland—an increase of 143 over 1970. The 1970 figure of 62 in turn represents a 23 per cent increase over 1969.

The illegitimacy rate during last year fell for the first time in 10 years, from 13 per cent to eight per cent.

The dramatic change in figures, both locally and nationally, is a result of changes in the Criminal Code and the legal establishment of abortion committees in many Canadian hospitals.

The report suggests the decrease in the number of illegitimate births in the health unit area "is likely a direct result of this legislative change."

A total of 78 abortions were carried out in Kelowna General Hospital in 1971, as compared with 23 the year before. The largest number occurred in Penticton, where there were 122, compared with 39 in 1970.

The overall figure of 205 represents a rate of 1.7 per cent per 100 live births.

Provincially, there were 7,090 therapeutic abortions carried out in B.C. hospitals during 1971, with a rate of 20.1 per cent per 100 live births. This compares sharply with figures of 8.1 per cent in 1970, 1.4 per cent in 1969 and just .3 per cent in 1968.

In 1970 in Canada, there were 11,200 therapeutic abortions, with a rate of 3.2 per cent per 100 live births.

HIGHWAY CONDITIONS

The following is a road condition report from the local highway department to 8:30 a.m. today:

Highway 97—bare and wet, watch for rock and frost heaves on road.

Highway 33—bare and wet, watch for rock and frost heaves on road.

Break-Ins Continue

Kelowna RCMP are investigating several more incidents in the continuing series of break-ins in the area.

Sunday, Ernest Jensen told police someone had broken into and ransacked his summer cabin in Winfield. It is not known if anything was taken.

Sometime Saturday night, several thousand feet of aluminum wire was taken from a trailer owned by Nordle Electric, on Franklin Road.

Dorothy Chevalier reported to police Sunday that her apartment on Groves Avenue had been broken into and a quantity of beer stolen.

Officials are still determining whether anything was taken during a weekend break-in at Rutland Secondary School.

NO INJURIES

No injuries, but an estimated $300 damage resulted from a motor vehicle accident Sunday afternoon at the corner of Ethel Street and Lawrence Avenue. Drivers of the cars involved were Ruby Melnichuk, of Kelowna, and Heinrich Rist, of Rutland.

Fraser Canyon—bare and wet, watch for rock on road.

Catch Creek-Kamloops—bare and wet, watch for rock on road.

Kamloops-Revelstoke—bare and wet, watch for rock on road.

Rogers Pass—90 per cent bare. Closed three to ten miles east of Golden. (West Gate to Great Divide) due to snow slides.

Allison Pass—bare and wet, frost sections. Watch for rock and frost heaves on road.

Princeton-Penticton—bare and wet, watch for rock on road.

Osoyoos-Grand Forks—bare and wet, watch for frost heaves and fog patches.

Salmo-Creston—one inch snow, frost and sanded. Watch for frost heaves and fog patches.

Blueberry-Paulson—mostly bare and wet, watch for rock and frost heaves on road.

Kelowna-Revelstoke (Kamloops-Jasper)—mostly bare and wet. Watch for small rock, mud slides and frost heaves throughout.

Louis Rampone Heads Rotary

New officers were named Thursday for the Capri East Rotary Club. They take office July 1.

Louis Rampone steps from vice-president to president, succeeding Marsden Baird. John Doerksen is the new vice-president. Bill Pennell is secretary. Bill Yendall replaces Mr. Pennell as treasurer.

Directors are Brownie Krushen, Don Walchuk, A. A. (Blackie) Blackford, Dr. Des Morrow, Goro Yamamoto and John Bauer.

Water Readings At Record High

The provincial Water Resources Service warns mountain snowpack conditions in all regions of British Columbia are "above to well above average."

The readings are "especially applicable" to the lower coast and southern interior regions, the report adds, where many snow courses have recorded the "highest" March 1 measurements.

The government water investigation branch says volume streamflow during the spring and summer runoff period is expected to be above to well above average for virtually "all snow-fed rivers in the province."

The report adds although the larger-than-usual mountain snowpacks "give cause for concern" as to the expected maximum freshet stages of Interior rivers it should be noted that, in addition to mountain snow, the maximum stages "also depend on the melt and precipitation patterns of the next few months."

The report says for this reason, "it is too early to anticipate maximum river stages and flood potential."

Snowpack lies at all elevations in the Okanagan basin watershed as of March 1, were also described as well above average, with all snow courses reporting "record or near record" high March 1 water equivalents.

The report says because of this heavy accumulation of snow the Okanagan through July inflow into Okanagan Lake is expected to be "well above average."

However, in addition to mountain snow, precipitation and temperature patterns of the next few months "will be important factors in determining the actual inflow."

Okanagan Lake level is currently eight-tenths of a foot above the minimum operating level, the report adds, and will be further lowered to take full advantage of the storage potential.

The following is a list of water equivalent precipitation comparisons in inches at various points in the Okanagan.

Mr. McIver said the Trudeau government "is too powerful and too arrogant. We need a stronger position in Parliament to prevent this government from becoming so arrogant."

Mr. Snowsall represented Saanich, near Victoria, in the provincial house from June, 1952, to June, 1953, for the CCF. In the 1968 federal election he fought against environment minister Jack Davis in Coquitlam. His mother, the late Mrs. Patricia Snowsall, campaigned against Premier W. A. C. Bennett for the provincial south Okanagan seat in 1941.

"I think I can take the riding," said Mr. Snowsall. "The NDP strength is rising. We must get a government in that cares about eliminating poverty and pollution."

Mr. Snowsall lived in the Kelowna area 1925-39, returning in April, 1971, after leaving his teaching job in Kamloops. He does substitute teaching.

... Mild

The weatherman promises sunny periods with continued mild temperatures Tuesday. Highs in the 50s. The high and low in the city Saturday was 47 and 33 with .12 inches of rain, compared with 47 and 30 degrees with .04 inches of rain on Sunday. The high and low at the airport Saturday was 49 and 32 with .02 inches of rain, compared to 41 and 30 with .08 inches of rain on Sunday. Overnight low expected in the lower 30s.

Health Unit Program Checked By Director

Work done in 1971 by the South Okanagan Health Unit "reflects the diversified and comprehensive programs provided residents of the unit."

The statement of review is contained in a report from unit director, Dr. D. A. Clarke, contained in the 43rd annual SOHU report.

Last year, in addition to being the unit's 43rd year of operation, was also the province's 100th anniversary of confederation with Canada, Dr. Clarke notes.

Some of the national health highlights cited included the release of the LeDain report on non-medical use of drugs, the national conference on family life education in Ottawa, the joint provincial-federal Okanagan Basin water study, Opportunity for Youth grants for students, a national survey on the concept of community health care clinics, and a proposed new system of financing the delivery of health care in Canada.

Closer to home, the South Okanagan Union Board of Health met four times during 1971 "to deal with the most pressing of a static staff complement and coping with growing community health needs brought on by population growth, increased industrialization and new health tasks assigned by provincial legislation," Dr. Clarke reported.

He said the SOHU had 55 trained workers operating out of eight modern community health centres to provide a "diversified, comprehensive preventive health program, the equivalent of the best in Canada."

UNDERSTANDING

This, Dr. Clarke added, was due "chiefly to the wide public understanding and participation in the programs." Extensive consultative services were available to the field staff, the report added, through Dr. K. I. G. Benson, director of local health services, and Dr. G. R. F. Elliot, deputy provincial health officer.

Local highlights during the year included a $12,000 grant from the British Columbia Medical Health Services for the employment of health educator, Wayne Miller; a $5,000 Opportunity for Youth grant for employment during the summer of four students for epidemiological studies on swimmers' health and beach counts; and a $20,000 federal health grant for construction of a dental health centre.

The report listed new health facilities and services as a five-man mental health clinic at Penticton, established in September, 1971; a $5 million addition to Penticton hospital; a third poison control centre at St. Martin hospital in September, 1971; formation of the Okanagan Regional Council on drugs, alcohol and tobacco; establishment of 80 community care facilities under health department supervision; and the purchase of $500 high-volume air sampler, and a $700 fecal coliform incubator.

MORE CONCERN

Dr. Clarke cited health trends as increased public concern for children, elderly and the environment; the expanded role of the public health nurse and utilization of volunteer help; increased consultative role of the public health inspector; the diagnosis of three equine encephalitis cases in the Okanagan "for the first time in British Columbia"; and the rapid population and industrialization growth in School District 23 (Central Okanagan).

The report also lists some of the future needs of the unit, including the employment of a full-time business manager to administer local health services and implement modern business techniques.

The unit has also been pressing for a regional public health laboratory to "effectively" monitor local environment, and better integrated "healthful living services" for the elderly and provision for regional intermediate care facilities.

Dr. Clarke would also like to see the establishment of a comprehensive regional treatment facility for alcoholics and drug addicts. Future wants of the unit also include adequate provincial and federal incentives to remove "several domestic and trade waste outfalls from the Okanagan Lake system" and support of the agriculture utilization of domestic and vegetable wastes. The report also stresses the need for employment of a full-time health educator by the health board to coordinate "an effective health education program with support research."

Dr. Clarke, among his conclusions, says bolstering of public health nurse services "will provide good value," with primary emphasis on prevention, and that good health public practices "can modify the demand for increased treatment services."

"We may be too late to turn back the geological clock of time," he describes the "challenge" of advancing technologies and increasing population which, Dr. Clarke adds, are inherent with the "present rate of degradation of the environment."

Apple Supplies Lower But Prices Moving Up

Apple supplies in the province are lower this year, according to a federal department of agriculture report.

Issued as a special edition of the Canadian agricultural spring outlook, the report adds apple prices in British Columbia are "higher" than in Quebec and Ontario.

Prospects in price and supplies indicate the situation will "remain that way" for the balance of the marketing season, the directive says, adding fresh apple prices are increasing as normal to the end of the marketing season.

The report predicts B.C. producers can look forward to comparatively higher prices. Red delicious are selling for between $6.35 and $6.85 a box in Winnipeg, compared with $5.95 to $6.20 a year ago in the same city.

Looking to Prairie markets are both Ontario and the United States. Quebec may move some apples west, but the report says it was more likely Quebec exports will be directed toward the Atlantic provinces.

Eastern storage stocks of raw apples are up significantly from last year, and United States stocks have increased by 15 per cent from the five-year average. This combination has pushed Ontario and Quebec prices to the "lowest level in three years," the report stresses, with Ontario McIntosh varieties selling for $2.75 to $3 a bushel in Toronto, compared with $3.50 and $3.75 a year ago.

No additional significant exports of fresh apples is expected during the balance of the marketing season, and predictions are the year may end up with "one of the smallest export movements on record."

The report notes the movement into fruit processing "has been slower this year" but should pick up for the remainder of the season. With the exception of the juice pack, the department says movement into processing could be lower than last year.

Canned apple juice production was down by 12 per cent as of January 1, but prices are increasing and are better than a year ago. The report adds with comparatively smaller stocks on hand, increasing quantities of apples will go to processing.

The demand for Quebec apple cider exceeds supply, and plant capacity is still "somewhat limited" in terms of the current demand and significant additional quantities of apples "may well go into this product," the report says.

The department predicts there will be a decrease in B.C. and Nova Scotia apple processing, with declines more than likely offsetting increases in Ontario and Quebec.

However, world apple production is increasing, and since output in Canada and the United States is expected to increase faster than the population growth, "orchards of tomorrow should be designed with specific objectives and goals, taking these factors into consideration," the report emphasizes.

EXPOSURE THREATENED

One of the exciting scenes in The Music Man is when Charlie Cowell threatens to expose Prof. Harold Hill, the musical con man. When Char-

Two Westbank youths, Dwight William Reid and Darrell George Kendal, appeared in Provincial Court today charged with breaking and entering and theft. They were apprehended by Kelowna RCMP following an incident early Sunday at the Tape Deck, 491 Leon Avenue. Both were remanded without plea until March 20.

Abraham K. Frelsen, of Rutland, was fined $100 for driving while under suspension. He was remanded to April 14, after pleading not guilty to a charge of driving with a blood-alcohol level exceeding .08 per cent. Both charges were laid following a motor vehicle accident last Dec. 2 near Golden.

Paul Lorrain, of Kelowna, was fined $150, after he admitted stealing a truck from his roommate, Napoleon Paul Pontin, on March 8. Court was told the accused had been drinking prior to the offence and had taken Mr. Pontin's wallet, as well as his truck keys, from their residence. He was picked up by police following an accident in Penticton.

Frank McCulloch, of Kelowna, was fined $200 and prohibited from driving for one month after he pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving.

The demand for Quebec apple cider exceeds supply, and plant capacity is still "somewhat limited" in terms of the current demand and significant additional quantities of apples "may well go into this product," the report says.

Workers To Vote

About 100 members of the Distillery Workers' Union at the Hiram Walker distillery in Winfield are expected to vote soon on possible terms for their first contract.

A memorandum of agreement was reached Saturday night, after six days of talks involving a provincial mediator. Terms will not be released until the vote is taken.

Last month the union voted to strike if necessary. Talks began in November.

Course In Chairmanship Needed In This Country

What this country needs is a good course in chairmanship!

Thousands of valuable man hours are frittered away each year as meetings of all kinds are allowed to drag and wander off objectives, says an editorial in the Penticton Herald.

You can spot a poor chairman every time. He's the one being taken on a time-consuming tour by a few "talkers" at the meeting. The tour stops everywhere but where it's really at. Many chairmen are like Mr. Milquetoast who rides until the bus stops rather than pull the bell-cord to get off at his corner.

This is not to fault the willingness of the volunteer or elected chairman, except on one count. Once the post has been accepted duty binds him to be a good chairman—to learn the rules of order, to be prepared, to have an agenda and stick to it, to start the meeting on time and end on time.

Nor is wishy-washy chairmanship confined to volunteer groups. Other organizations, including those in which the chairman may be a highly-paid executive, suffer the same pitfalls and waste the same man hours.

The democratic process is often misunderstood as one in which long discussion assures a good decision. Conversely, a quick decision is invariably wrong.

But poor chairmanship, with its inconsistent treatment of topics, even breaks this "long talk-good decision"; policy and short considerations sneak in.

However, the sneak-in seldom offers an advantage, since the important topic may be given a brief go-around while the trivial item on the agenda is pursued ad nauseam.

A city council in one Alberta centre was known to have debated for 45 minutes the right or wrong of the dog catcher's actions in luring canines into his pound-buggy with bits of meat and moments later it spent 12 minutes on a controversial matter involving some $350,000 of taxpayers' money.

Meetings have been known to go into the late hours of night without arriving at some simple objective set shortly after dinner.

Little wonder volunteers soon become absentees in many groups. Little wonder the work following the decision may end up short-changed. The decision takes so long there's no time for action.

The greatest wonder of all is that an enormous amount of community betterment is achieved in spite of the hurdles poor chairmanship can present.

Think what might be done if action followed an orderly, enthusiastic and brief meeting.

Being a "good-evening-ladies-and-gentlemen," and, "I-will-consider-a-motion-to-adjourn" chairman is easy. Just learn the two requisites, open the meeting at 7 p.m., set the alarm for 10 p.m. and call for the adjournment at the bell.

Being a good chairman takes some effort, some learning. At least one organization, The Toastmasters Club, offers training in meeting leadership and that is a main program feature with the club.

Apart from this, good books are available both on rules of order and hints to make meetings more effective.

Finally, for those who may have "escaped" the role of chairman this year, a two-point policy: it is not improper to remind the chairman the meeting is wandering off topic; and, perhaps more important, a reminder that the wanderer may be you.

Changing Role Of Banks

The changing role of the Canadian chartered banks in consumer credit is reflected in a statement by the Canadian Bankers' Association that the banks now provide nearly half of all consumer credit in the country.

Time was, back in the 60s, when this was not the case, but since they entered the market with extensive advertising campaigns the banks have made great strides. At September 30 last of all outstanding consumer credit the share of the chartered banks was 47 per cent compared to only 21.3 per cent in 1960. While credit extended by retailers has declined to less than 13 per cent from 25 per cent in 1960, and by other financial institutions by 13.3 per cent to 40.4 per cent, credit unions and life insurance companies have made some gains.

The banks credit their increased business in the consumer loan field to improvement in sources of personal credit information, general lengthening of credit terms by banks to enable a wider range of customers to meet repayment requirements, and the availability at banks of consumer loans at lower cost than generally are offered elsewhere.

As the banks' proportion of consumer loans increases rapidly for many purposes, loans for the purchase of automobiles have risen at the fastest rate and now comprise more than 25 per cent of the banks' total consumer loans. It is estimated that banks financed two-fifths of all auto loans in 1971 without taking into account indirect financing by finance companies who obtain funds from banks.

Many factors are seen by the CBA behind the rapid growth of consumer credit—increased population; an increased demand for consumer goods of greater variety and relatively high value, particularly with the mass appeal of television sets, automobiles, new types of household appliances and electrical goods; a change in the attitude of individuals, with more subscribing to the "buy now, pay later" concept; the introduction of new lending techniques in the consumer field, and the favorable experience of institutions lending to consumers.

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA

CANADA'S STORY

Hanson And Brown Led Free Slaves

By BOB BOWMAN

The War of 1812 was one of the most useless ever waged, but one good result was that Negro slaves in the United States learned they could find freedom in Canada. Gradually an escape route was developed by abolitionists in the northern states. It was known as "the underground railway" although it wasn't a railway at all, but just a route usually traveled at night, with places to hide during the day.

The Negroes on the southern plantations included secret messages in their spirituals letting each other know when a "shipment" was leaving for Canada, or pointing to Canada as a land where freedom could be found. The spiritual, Follow the Gourd, was one of them. The gourd was the Big Dipper pointing to the North Star, the way to Canada.

One of the pioneers of escape was Josiah Henson, who brought his family to Canada in 1830. His adventures inspired Harriet Beecher Stowe to write Uncle Tom's Cabin. Henson established a community for escaped slaves near Chatham, Ont.

Another famous American who used the underground railway was John Brown whose body "lies a-mouldering in the grave." He brought 12 Negro slaves to Windsor, Ont., on March 13, 1859. Then he organized a convention in Chatham seeking support for the freedom movement.

Later in the year Brown attempted to start a revolt at Harper's Ferry for which he was hanged. It was one of the opening moves in the U.S. Civil War.

OTHER MARCH 13 EVENTS

1521—King of Portugal granted explorer Fragunde the Gulf of St. Lawrence and islands off Nova Scotia.

1845—James Douglas arrived at site of Victoria, B.C.

1885—British Columbia passed legislation (later rejected by Supreme Court) prohibiting Chinese from entering province.

1900—J. W. Tyrrell began survey from Great Slave Lake to Chesterfield Inlet.

1909—Lord Strathcona established fund for military training schools.

1916—Manitoba passed temperance act.

1919—Four western provinces held labor conference at Calgary.

1928—Eileen Vollick of Hamilton was first woman in Canada to get pilot's licence.

Dublin Look Quite Normal But Pressures Building Up

DUBLIN (AP) — In downtown Dublin the war seems a million miles away, not an hour's drive to the north. Guerrilla warfare shakes Belfast and Londonderry in Northern Ireland, but here life looks completely normal.

Yet pressures are building against Premier Jack Lynch, politically a moderate. Unless settlement in the North comes quickly, the Irish Republic could face financial disaster.

Lynch heads the Fianna Fail party, heirs to what now is regarded as the anti-partition faction in the Irish civil war of 1922-24.

He is committed to seeking a united Ireland by peaceful means. By expulsion of militants he has kept his party united behind this commitment. But the expulsions have cost his parliamentary majority a third and could conceivably cost his job.

Fianna Fail holds 70 of 144 seats in the Dail, including the non-voting speaker, Fine Gael, descendants of the civil war faction which accepted partition, holds 51, and Labor 17. Both main opposition parties support Lynch's commitment to peace.

ASK TOUGH LINE
The six remaining seats are shared by independents and former Lynch supporters who want a tougher line on the North.

While the main parties are publicly committed to peaceful unification, they have some differences of approach.

The Labor party, an amalgamation of trade unionists and Dublin intellectuals, wants drastic changes in the republic's constitution to make it more palatable to Northern Ireland Protestants, and says these changes should be made now.

Lynch's view is that changes in the constitution can be talked about once unity is established as a principle.

A surprise factor is that some influential Northern Protestants, and these among the most militant, are beginning to look seriously at the political aims of the Irish Republican Army's militantly nationalist Provisional wing.

Northern Ireland now consists of six of the nine counties of Ulster, one of the four historic provinces of Ireland. Sinn Fein, political wing of the Provisionals, would give each province its own parliament. The counties of Cavan, Monaghan and Donegal would be restored to Ulster and the religious mix in the province would be changed.

Rory O'Brady, the Provisional's president, calculates that Protestants in Ulster still would have a majority, roughly one million to 750,000 against the current one million to 500,000.

BIGGEST VOICE
This, he says, would initially give Catholics a greater voice in Ulster affairs and eventually—if sectarian barriers begin to fall—establish the possibility of credible opposition and alternative government. In the 50 years since partition all power in the North has been in Protestant hands.

Similar provincial parliaments, under the Sinn Fein plan, would be set up in Munster, Leinster and Connaught. A national parliament, based perhaps in Armagh rather than Dublin, would control finance, foreign policy and defense.

It would not control education—an important point to Protestants.

Along with political hazards the republic faces financial troubles.

Tourism, its biggest single source of income, has been hit by both the Northern crisis and by world recession. Two-fifths of last year's tourist income came from British visitors. This year many Britons are staying away.

Unemployment in the republic stands at 80,000, twice the normal level.

LETTER TO EDITOR

JMC PRAISED

Sir:
I'm writing this letter regarding the last Jeuneuses Musicales concert. I am a Grade 7 student from South Rutland Elementary, and appreciated the opportunity to attend. Comparing it to the others, I thought it was one of the best. The leader of the ensemble explained things clearly, then played interesting, but short, pieces to demonstrate each ancient instrument.

As well as talking, they played quite a bit, and I think that was an improvement from the last concert where we heard only three pieces. For a last concert it was most enjoyable, like the Jazz Group we heard last year. Even though I will be in Grade 8 next year, I sincerely hope they will continue with Jeuneuses Musicales.

Yours sincerely,
ANNE MCKELVY.

Auditor-General's Office Not Above Controversy

OTTAWA (CP) — Maxwell Henderson says he doesn't like controversy.

And tradition has it that his office—that of auditor-general of the federal government—is above controversy.

For all that, Mr. Henderson, chief scrutineer of government financial dealings, has been one of the most stormy figures on Parliament Hill since the Trudeau government took office in 1968.

Last week it became evident that the crusty, 63-year-old public servant is gathering himself for the biggest scrap of his career—and perhaps his last.

Mr. Henderson must retire in two years, according to the terms of the Financial Administration Act.

WANTS A REMEDY
But before he goes he has made it clear he wants a remedy for the biggest of the hundreds of grievances he has put before Parliament during the last 12 years.

This is that the government is not giving him the resources and freedom he needs to do his job.

His job, in effect, often consists of embarrassing the government by turning up examples of waste and incompetence, if not worse, in the spending of public money.

The Commons opposition, which has backed him since he started raising this complaint in his annual reports three years ago, is supporting him again this year.

It started last week after Mr. Henderson sent a letter to Finance Minister John Turner saying his annual report probably would be delayed five months past its due date of last Dec. 31. His reason was lack of staff.

AGREES TO HEARING

The government agreed Thursday to have his contention heard by the Commons public accounts committee with a report to be made by March 29. But this agreement came only after a wrangle that spread over parts of two sitting days.

Mr. Henderson says he doesn't like to be involved in such an uproar.

"Nobody likes to be involved in controversy like this, I hope. 'I certainly don't like it. It is no atmosphere at all in which to work, but I have a job to do and I'm trying to do it.'"

At Feb. 1, he says, he had 265 persons on his staff—28 fewer than government spending estimates provide for.

He maintains he should be allowed to hire his staff, to overcome what he calls the cumbersome and slow efforts of the Public Service Commission to provide him with job candidates.

SAYS STATUS CUT

And he says the government reduced the status of his department a few years ago when it changed the job definitions of many of his employees, thereby assigning them lower salaries and encouraging them to take jobs elsewhere.

The implication of his and opposition complaints is that the government is trying to reduce the effectiveness of the auditor-general—to make it less likely that he will turn up flascos like the $17 million refitting of the aircraft carrier Bonaventure, which originally was supposed to cost $8 million. The ship was sold for scrap for $1 million a year after the job was finished. The public accounts committee, which will hear the auditor-general this week, has heard Mr. Henderson's arguments before. Two years ago it brought down a report recommending that his salary be increased, and that he be allowed to hire his own staff.

The government gave him the salary increase, but ignored the second recommendation.

A government bill was introduced in 1970 that would have restricted the scope of his influence and required him to inform the government in advance of what he was going to criticize.

BILL WITHDRAWN

But the bill was withdrawn under heavy pressure from the opposition and from the public.

Mr. Henderson says that it doesn't have any argument with anyone in government—"except that fellow at treasury board."

That fellow is Treasury Board President C. M. Drury, who asked on a television program in 1970 "whether we should look for really another kind of person to be auditor-general."

The type of person, he says, is a "doughty little silver-haired man with glasses and a moustache."

He emigrated from Britain when he was 19, left a comfortable job as comptroller of the CBC when he was 51, and he apparently wants to leave a mark in the job the Conservative government of John Diefenbaker appointed him to in 1960.

Maxwell Henderson earns $39,000 a year and lives in a large house in a fashionable section of Ottawa, to which he could retire quietly next year.

BOOK CORNER

By R. J. ANDERSON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The combatants of the Second World War fought with artillery that essentially was the same as they used in the First World War. But there were evolutionary improvements in range and mobility, in the efficiency of projectiles and in anti-aircraft fire. Advances in fire-control and communications were spectacular.

Artillery won the Hitler war for the Allies, writes Col. G. W. L. Nicholson. The key was fire control that enabled one man to bring down upon a single target the fire of a thousand guns.

The Ottawa military historian says the only new type of artillery to appear in the field was the anti-tank gun. Near the end, the rocket "land-matress" made its terrifying appearance but it was not a major factor in the war.

In Volume II, The Gunners of Canada, the history of the Royal Regiment of Canadian Artillery, Nicholson picks up where he left off four years ago. Volume I, published early in 1968, told the story of the Canadian artillery from the days of Jacques Cartier in 1534 to Siberia in 1919.

Step by meticulous step, with now and then a humorous aside, he goes through the doldrums between the wars, into the Second World War, and Korea and into Canada's role in NATO and in United Nations peacekeeping missions. The 760-page work has 48 pages of source references, two 16-page photographic sections, 15 black-and-white maps and four color pull-out maps. The jacket is from a painting by the military artist, Maj. C. F. Comfort.

25-POUNDER BEST

Nicholson, a veteran of two world wars and a school teacher in Battleford, Sask., for 20 years in between, writes for the present but has an eye on the future.

"All my books are going to be a source 100 years from now," he said in an interview. "I suppose you could call this consolation for working on these things."

"These things" include Marlborough and the War of the Spanish Succession, the Canadians in Italy 1943-45 and The Fighting Newfoundlanders. He spent seven years on The Gunners.

If artillery was the war for the Allies in the European theatre, and Nicholson pays full tribute to the other arms and other services in making the statement, the battle-winning pledge, he says, was the British 25-pounder. It was a "gun-how," a combination of two first-war pieces, the 18-pounder with a low trajectory and the high-trajectory 4.5-inch howitzer.

The German 88 was perhaps the most publicized artillery piece in the war. It wrought havoc in the Western Desert and was an outstanding weapon. But on a gun-for-gun basis, it could not be compared with the 25-pounder, Nicholson said as he defended the points made in his book.

'FIRE-CONTROL' WON

"The 25-pounder was the gun that won the war for us," he said, "even though you can't measure it against the 88."

"The 88, a 'flak gun,' was used as an anti-tank gun all the time. Our 25-pounder wasn't used against tanks. We had 16-pounders for anti-tank use. That didn't match the 88."

In The Gunners, he says the "really significant" changes that took place from one war to another were in the design of the ancillary instruments of fire-control and in communications.

"The greatest single factor in winning battles in the European theatre," he writes, "was the efficiency attained in making it possible for one officer to bring down on a single target a massive concentration fired simultaneously by the guns of a full division, corps, or even army artillery."

"By contrast, the enemy lagged far behind in the degree to which he could centralize control over the fire of a large number of artillery units."

"German gunners were never able to achieve a flexible system which would allow all batteries within range to be brought to bear on the same target without a great deal of prior planning. The inability to do this must be counted as the greatest single weakness of German artillery during the Second World War."

ROCKETS EFFECTIVE

The contribution to scientific advance in gunnery made by the late Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, the gunner-scientist who was Canada's first commander overseas and outstanding in many other fields, is praised by Nicholson in a lengthy reference.

The other major artillery development, the rocket land-matress, was an improvement on the rockets used almost 300 years ago. It fired 32 high-explosive rockets at half-second intervals and now is standard in aerial warfare. In the Second World War, Nicholson says, "they were terribly effective, but we mustn't over-emphasize what they achieved."

The Gunners is as formidable as the artillery about which Nicholson writes so knowledgeably. It's must reading for the men who manned the guns in the advance in Italy, and the thrust into Normandy and through Northwest Europe.

Now and then it is enlivened—in the proper place—with such anecdotes as the secretary of the mess at Tete de Pont barracks, Kingston, Ont., reprimanding himself, the adjutant, in 1936 for exceeding the $15-a-month wine limit for junior officers. The secretary-adjutant, Lieut. W. A. B. Anderson, became a Second World War general and now is chairman of the Ontario Civil Service Commission.

Never to be seen again is the spectacle of the galloping guns.

Graphically described by Nicholson in his account of the doldrums between the wars, this was the famous musical drive of the RCHA, a colorful feature of Canadian fairs and exhibitions in the 1920s in which six-horse gun teams, at full speed, went through intricate precision manoeuvres designed to test the skill of drivers and horses.

PEACHLAND COUPLE HONORED

Mr. and Mrs. Wes Dunkin of Peachland, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary. They were married on March 5, 1947 in Marguerite, Man. Relatives and friends arranged a surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leeming, Blue Waters. All three children were in attendance, son Jack and his wife Cindy, son Dan and daughter Joanne. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rausch came from Calgary. Mrs. Rausch, Mrs. Dunkin's sister, was bridesmaid. Three other sisters of Mrs. Dunkin, Mrs. Mary Wardle, Mrs. Margaret Tully and Mrs. Ethel Walsh, and brother James McNeill, came from Manitoba to join in the celebration. A toast to the couple was proposed by their daughter-in-law, Mrs. A. Coldham gave a toast to the couple from their friends. Their children gave them personalized silver wine goblets. Friends presented gifts for their home, and a money tree. Out-of-town friends attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Armstrong from Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. E. Chisholm from Summerland and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Haskell from Logan Lake.

Hall Association Has Annual Meet

OKANAGAN MISSION (Special) — A meeting of the Okanagan Mission Community Hall Association was held in the hall. President Art Harrop thanked those who had worked on the centennial committee and the association, John Surtees, chairman of the centennial committee, reported on the addition to the hall. A small deficit is being taken over by the association. A Ladies' Auxiliary has been formed, headed by Mrs. Ray Bostock.

Mr. Surtees announced certificates of merit have been awarded to various members of the centennial committee who helped make the extensions to the hall an accomplished fact. They are Mrs. David Geen, Geoff Sarsons, Don Brown, Larry Wright, Robert McKee, Ralph W. Wilson, J. C. Dook, Mrs. William P. Traut, Mrs. George Wambeck, Mr. and Mrs. Osborne Scott, Alex Cresswell, Greg Withers, Mrs. Larry Wright and Mr. Surtees.

Directors for the coming year are Geoff Sarsons, Mrs. David Withers, Ross Lemmon, Osborne Scott, Larry Wright, Mrs. David Geen, Edward Blackie and Mrs. Edward Blackie, Mrs. George Wambeck, Jack Nixon, Ian Follis, Barry Braden, Lee Harris, Michael Laine and Bob Brown.

Dr. Russ Ferguson of the recreation commission reported it was hoped to get the regional district involved with recreational activities, and a letter had been sent to the district representative Eain Lamont. Reports were given showing the work done to assist the centennial committee on a green belt, parks, playgrounds, badminton, volleyball, soccer, senior citizens, music and the tennis club.

Officers of the commission for the coming year are chairman Dr. Ferguson, vice-chairman Hank Hildebrand, secretary Mrs. Margaret Hopkinson, treasurer Ian Follis, directors Dr. David Geen, R. B. Kerr, Mrs. Joseph Sweeney, Mrs. Lottie Traut, John Benmore, George Higgins, Peter Ireland, Roy Leite and Geoff Wood.

T. A. McDonagh, 59 Dies On Sunday

Funeral services will be held from the Garden Chapel, Tuesday at 2 p.m. for Thomas Alexander McDonagh, 59, of Winfield, who died Sunday.

Mr. McDonagh was born at Winfield on July 9, 1912. He was educated there and ran an orchard until his retirement in 1944. It is believed he was the oldest Winfield native. He was a member of the Foresters lodge.

Mr. McDonagh is survived by his wife Edna of Winfield, his parents Mr. and Mrs. V. R. McDonagh of Winfield, one brother Ross also of Winfield, three sisters, Mrs. H. D. Butterworth (Marjorie) of Oryama, Mrs. D. Earl (Norma) of Winfield, Mrs. W. S. Coxon (Eunice) of Loon Lake, B.C.

Rev. H. A. Traub will officiate. Burial will follow at the Kelowna cemetery.

Instruments Purchased

RUTLAND (Staff) — The Band Parents' Association held their meeting at the high school. President Art Harrop presided. Three horns have been purchased with proceeds of the Christmas concert. One has been put into each school.

March 22, is the date of the school district band concert with the KLO Junior Concert Band, George Elliott Senior Concert Band and Rutland Junior and Senior Concert bands. The Oroville band will play at the school assembly that day. There will be a silver collection at the concert.

Ray McFadden, principal, announced that the new school is now in operation and a music room will be built in the near future. It had not been decided whether there will be one or two music teachers.

It was agreed that the band would play at the May Day festivities if enough students are available. The meeting decided to rent a bus for the trip to Spokane, May 12. The Spokane choir will sing at the school on May 5.

Ladies' Auxiliary Discusses Plans

PEACHLAND (Special) — At the first meeting of this year the Ladies' Auxiliary to Guides and Brownies discussed plans for 1972, and the need to raise money. The group decided to hold a rummage, white elephant and home baking sale March 28 in the community hall. The annual mother and daughter banquet will be May 16 in the community hall.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Haskell on Trepanier Bench were their son, daughter-in-law and new granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Haskell from Logan Lake, B.C.

Murray Dell of Waterloo, Ont. visited his mother Mrs. L. Dell on Fifth Street.

Barry Coates left for Whitehorse after vacationing for a month at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Coates on Beach Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Todd, Sadie and Graham attended the wedding of Murray Todd to Christine Plowman at Sardis, B.C.

UCW Invited To Supper

OYAMA (Special) — On Tuesday, the United Church Women are invited to supper and a social evening by the women of the Anglican Church Guild. The time is 6:30 p.m. at St. Margaret's Church hall in Winfield.

This was decided at the monthly meeting of St. Mary's Anglican Church Guild at the home of Mrs. Eckfort Ulvaan. There were 11 members present, including new member Mrs. Sheila Cronin. Also discussed was the annual spring tea after Easter.

Next meeting will be March 27 at the rectory.

Send Grain From Prince Rupert Suggests Farmers' President

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prince Rupert should be established as a second major grain-exporting port on Canada's west coast, Roy Atkinson, president of the National Farmers' Union, said Sunday.

Mr. Atkinson said in an interview that rather than concentrate shipping in Vancouver, the federal government should establish the port in the northern British Columbia city to bypass growing congestion here.

He laid the blame for the current bottleneck in grain deliveries on the railways, which "refused to make sufficient cars available to keep the port supplied."

Mr. Atkinson said grain terminal operators in Vancouver admit to a maximum daily capacity of 800 carloads, amounting to a potential annual export of 400 million bushels.

Yet, he said, the greatest number of cars unloaded in the port in one day is 600 and the record year for grain exports from Vancouver was 1971 when 240 million bushels were handled.

"Without an increase in facilities here, the annual export total can't almost be doubled," he said.

"The railways have the capacity, but they're not making the effort—they have sufficient rolling-stock, but they're not being deployed efficiently."

Mr. Atkinson said hopper cars, used for the movement of potash from Saskatchewan, could also be used to increase the daily delivery capacities of the railways.

He said potash is not selling too well on the international market and the hopper cars, which have a capacity of 3,000 bushels compared to 2,100 for a conventional boxcar, should be transferred to the grain trains.

Blast Government Failure On Fishermen's WCB Plan

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fishermen Saturday condemned the failure of the British Columbia government to extend full coverage for fishermen under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

Delegates to the annual convention of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union criticized Labor Minister James Chabot for his "callous attitude toward fishermen and their dependants."

Amendments to the act, they said, would not provide the necessary protection for fishermen. They asked that fishermen be given an opportunity to present their views during the current session to the legislature's labor committee.

Earlier, Vancouver Alderman Harry Rankin criticized the federal government's refusal to participate in the proposed $2.5 million co-operative fish cannery at Port Simpson on B.C.'s north coast.

CHARGES DUPLICITY The government, in refusing to loan money for the plant, to be owned and operated by Indians, showed the contrast between its attitude and its professed concern for Indians, Mr. Rankin said.

Roy Atkinson, president of the National Farmers' Union, told delegates that most fishermen are victimized, just as farmers are, by giant food companies. The difference between prices paid to fishermen for fish and retail prices is the same as the spread found in farm products, he said.

"The more food farmers produce, the less they get for it," Mr. Atkinson said, adding that the same situation prevailed for fishermen.

WIN CURLING PEACHLAND (Special) — Four members of the Peachland Ladies' Curling Club won the A event at a bonspiel in Summerland. They are Kay Chevallier, Joan and Liz Cousins, also F. Perkins.

Trophies Are Presented At Fish, Game Banquet

WINFIELD (Special) — The 13th annual Fish and Game banquet and dance was held Saturday night at the Winfield Memorial Hall. More than 300 men, women and children ate such delicacies as moose, elk, venison, cougar, duck, turkey and fish.

Master of ceremonies, Ron Taylor presented a silver tray to the couple who came the farthest distance to attend the banquet, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kurovia from New Westminster.

Highlight of the evening was awarding of trophies by president, Rick Kobayashi. The Oceola Fish and Game Deer Trophy went to Max Day, the A. H. Flintoft memorial trophy for white tail deer was won by V. K. Willett.

For the annual fishing derby, the E. C. Nuyens trophy was accepted by Rick Taylor on behalf of himself, his father, Ron and Alf Taylor. The A. W. Pollard Trophy for the largest trout caught was won by Matt Kobayashi. Gordon Willett received both the Oceola goose trophy, donated by W. E. Sheritt, and the J. R. Chessman memorial pheasant trophy.

SPECIAL GUESTS Head table guests were Mr. and Mrs. Al Elliot, director and banquet co-chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Max Day, past president and banquet co-chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Virgel Willett, director and chief hunter; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Krebs, vice-president; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ross, president of the Kelowna Fish and Game Club; Ron Taylor, secretary and master of ceremonies; Mr. and Mrs. Kobayashi, president; Mr. and Mrs. Don Ellis, honorary life member; Earl Sheritt, honorary life member; Mrs. Joan French and Mrs. Analise Roesner representing the Vernon Fish and Game Club.

In his address, Mr. Kobayashi welcomed the guests and thanked the donors who supplied meat for the banquet. These were George McInroy, Dave Lodge, Colin Day, Mike Dapano, Gordon Hosler, Virgel Willett, Ken Nuyens, Max Day, Ron Taylor, Rick Taylor, Matt Kobayashi, Alf Taylor, Sax Koyama, R. Verschoor, Earl Sheritt and Gordon Willett. He also thanked mothers of Winfield girl guides, rangers and brownies for catering.

Mr. Kobayashi gave a brief outline of the club's activities. Main points were the annual fish derby, turkey trap shoots, hunter training program and winter pheasant feeding program.

The club has a membership of 50 and is looking for new members. He introduced his executive and thanked them.

The annual meeting will be held March 23 at 8 p.m. in the centennial room of the Winfield Memorial Hall.

Executive members for 1971 were president, Mr. Kobayashi; past president, Mr. Day; vice-president, Mr. Krebs; treasurer, Matt Kobayashi; secretary, Mr. Taylor; directors, Allan Elliot, Jim Patterson, Sax Koyama and Virgel Willett.

WATER RESOURCES PUBLIC SEMINAR

A public seminar on the subject of Okanagan water resource management will be held March 24 - 25, 1972, at the Naramata Centre for Continuing Education.

The seminar will review the progress of two and a half years of research by the Canada-British Columbia Okanagan Basin Study, and will discuss ways in which public participation in the evaluation of water management alternatives can be increased and made more effective.

- Some of the topics under discussion will be:
- Pollution Control Experiments at Vernon, Kelowna and Penticton.
 - Water Quantity Studies — water supply and flood control.
 - Water Quality Studies — nutrient input into rivers and lakes.
 - Limnology Studies — fish netting, weed growth, eutrophication.
 - Projections of economic growth and future water needs.
 - Residents' attitude survey.
 - Evaluation techniques and public participation.

Scientists and planners from the Okanagan Basin Study will report on and answer questions regarding their work. Slides, films and other literature will be available. If you have any pertinent literature or displays, please bring them along. Open forums and small group discussions will be encouraged. Seminar agendas will be handed out at Registration.

Registration for the seminar will begin at 9:00 a.m., March 24. The opening session starts at 10:30 a.m. Meetings will continue until about 8:00 p.m., with breaks for coffee, lunch and supper.

Saturday's activities commence at 9:00 a.m. and will proceed until 5:00 p.m. with breaks for breakfast, lunch, supper and coffee. There will be time available after supper for ad hoc workshops. Registration fee is $2.00 by mail or at the door. Attendance at the seminar, meals and accommodation are free for Okanagan residents, excepting those on expense account.

If we cannot accommodate all applicants at this first workshop due to facility limitations, your name will be placed on the list for attendance at subsequent workshops to be held in April and May. If you wish to attend the seminar, please complete the information form and send it to: Water Resources Seminar, Naramata Centre for Continuing Education, Naramata, B.C. Reservations will be made on a first come, first served basis.

Deleurme-Stoochnoff Rites Performed At Courthouse

Rita Stoochnoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Stoochnoff of Kelowna exchanged marriage vows with Norbert Peter Deleurme, also of Kelowna in a civil ceremony in the provincial court house, Kelowna. The groom is the son of Frank Deleurme of Kelowna and Mrs. Angele Deleurme of Manitoba. The 1 p.m. ceremony was conducted by government agent, R. E. Manson on March 4.

For her wedding the bride chose a dress of peach elegance fashioned on empire lines with long fitted sleeves and a scoop neckline. Two vertical rows of white lace daisies trimmed both the front and the back of her gown which was topped with a two-layered chapel length veil. A floral headpiece and a bouquet of red sweetheart roses and white carnations completed her ensemble.

Keeping the traditional sentiment, she tucked an 'old penny' in her shoe, borrowed a pendant and earrings and a blue garter, and her new gown completed the rhyme.

Her bridesmaid was her sister, Mary Stoochnoff of Kelowna, who chose a purple polyester crepe dress fashioned on similar lines to the bride's gown. She carried a bouquet of yellow 'mums'.

Best man was Denis Deleurme of Kelowna.

For the reception at the Women's Institute Hall on Lawrence Avenue, the bride's mother dressed wearing a grey tulle dress, accented with a corsage of pink and white carnations. Master of ceremonies, David St. Amand, proposed the toast to the bride and the best man did the honors for the bridesmaid. The three-tiered wedding cake which centred the lace covered bride's table, was flanked with white candles. Purple flowers and silver leaves decorated the cake, which was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

MR. AND MRS. NORBERT DELEURME

Before leaving on a honeymoon to the United States the bride changed to a purple tulle pantsuit with silver trimming. A corsage of red sweetheart roses and carnations complemented her ensemble. The couple will reside at 685 Quigley Road, Rutland on their return.

Out-of-town guests were from Vancouver, Castlegar, Salmon and Grand Forks, B.C.

Here for her fifth annual spring visit to the Valley is Mrs. Antoinette Venne of Benough, Sask., who is enjoying a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Sweeney of Eldorado Road.

Other Saskatchewan visitors in Kelowna for an extended holiday are Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Allingham of Young, Sask., who are visiting with their daughter Marilyn Allingham. Mr. Allingham took part in the mixed 'spiel' in Kelowna.

Consumers Course Starts Tonight

Concerned with the rising cost of living? Disenchanted with the quality of merchandise on occasion? Unhappy about warranty services on major purchases? Why not do something constructive about it, instead of grumbling?

A consumer education course sponsored by the adult education committee starts tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Kelowna Secondary School.

The eight-week course will start off with an introductory session featuring guest speaker, Mrs. Lois Smith of the department of consumer and corporate affairs. Mrs. Smith will elaborate on the need for consumerism, consumer traps and who is responsible for consumer protection.

MONEY

The second session on March 20 conducted by Ron Hood and Mrs. Lavender Hyde of the Credit Union will discuss money management. Credit and savings and investment will be the topics on this evening. The second half of this subject will be continued on March 27, with budgeting, insurance, estate planning and funerals, with Mrs. Betty Ann Greenwood, Russ Hawley, Clare Irish as resource personnel.

The fourth session will feature a speaker from the food consultant services on food and drugs.

Housing and shelter, with Orlando Ungaro of Wilson Realty as guest speaker will be the April 17 topic and Pat Parker of the Downtown Business Association will speak on merchandising and appliances on April 24.

CLOTHES
Mrs. Jill Moffatt, B.Sc., a specialist in clothing and textiles will be the resource speaker on May 1 when clothing textiles and rugs are the discussion features.

The final session on May 8 will appropriately feature automobiles, travel and recreation with John Longacre, sales manager, Arena Motors, as topic leader.

Registration fee for the series is a nominal $5.

DIET IMPROVES
MONTREAL (CP) — Local Weight Watchers club members are switching enthusiastically to a new diet recognizing that some no-nos are necessities. Now allowed are three tablespoons of mayonnaise or vegetable oil, breakfast cereal twice a week, noodles, macaroni, rice or spaghetti as long as one slice of bread is omitted from the day's quota.

MENTIONS CONCERN
Senator Buckwold raised Western Canada concern about a possible name change for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. He added that Commissioner Higgett is "a Saskatchewan product... very interested in maintaining the RCMP."

"I look forward to that name enduring for many years," Mr. Higgett said later. He was asked in an interview whether he is considering a decision to replace the letters RCMP with the word "police" on RCMP buildings and cruisers.

"Nothing is ever permanent," he replied. "We are always moving onward and upward."

Attorney-General Merv Leitch of Alberta said earlier this week he had asked Mr. Higgett to restore the RCMP insignia. Mr. Leitch said that if the request was not accepted, he would "consider what we might do about it."

Alberta's contract with the RCMP for police services already had been examined, he said.

ANN LANDERS

Father Was Best Friend And Teacher And Idol

Dear Ann Landers: A few days ago my best friend died. He was my teacher, my idol, my symbol of strength and protection. He was also my father. Last year on my seventeenth birthday I obtained my driver's license. Three weeks later I had a minor accident. I was scared to death of what my father would say when the police called him. I wasn't hurt but I had a few scratches and was dazed by the impact.

The moment he saw me, he hugged me and tried to calm my ragged nerves. I kept repeating, "I'll never drive again."

He said, "Oh yes you will. In fact you are going to drive me home."

Then he told me about Thomas Alva Edison, how he made the first electric light bulb after seven years of hard work and experimentation. Edison handed the precious bulb to his laboratory assistant to put away. The assistant accidentally dropped it. Of course the bulb broke into a thousand pieces.

Edison went to work on a second bulb. After he had completed it he handed it to his assistant again—to prove that he had confidence in him. I knew how the assistant must have felt when I was behind the wheel of that car, driving my dad home.

This was only one of the lessons I learned from this remarkable man. I am thankful for having had him for eighteen years. I hope you will find room in your column for my letter. Perhaps it will help the lucky ones who still have a dad to appreciate him a little more.—A Loving Daughter Dear Daughter: What a beautiful tribute. When I read your letter I thought about my own father. He, too, was a remarkable man and I miss him every day of my life.

Dear Ann Landers: My married daughter telephones me once a week. Big deal. It's the same routine every Thursday. She asks how I'm feeling and who died. Then she puts the kids on.

They say, "Hello, Grandma, the dog wants to talk to you." I sit and hold the phone like a dumbbell and I don't hear anything. All of a sudden the dog yelps, like somebody gave him a sock and then my daughter bawls at them to leave the dog alone. I get to listen to a whole fight—no conversation, just a lot of screaming and yelling.

I don't want to hang up because I think maybe someone will come on the line and say something. I have sat with the crazy receiver in my hand for as long as 20 minutes.

Please tell me what to do about this. It spoils my whole day. Thank you, Ann.—High Blood Pressure

Dear H.B.P.: When your daughter calls next Thursday tell her you'd like to talk to the kids but not to the dog. Ask her to stand by the phone and instruct the kids to say goodbye when they've finished so you'll know when to hang up.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from "Mum" who complains that her two beautiful daughters don't have any dates because they are tall. She said all the tall guys are taken by the "sawed-off, runty dames," and she thinks it's a dirty shame. I happen to be a girl five feet tall and I date a lot—short boys as well as tall ones.

It doesn't make any difference to me. I have observed that many tall girls are popular, so maybe "Mum's" statuesque beauties have rotten personalities to go with their beautiful faces. Tell her, will you please—Happy Pee Wee

Dear Happy: It would be a waste of time. If love is blind, mother love is also deaf and dumb.

Confidential to Disappointed in Alabama: There is no way I can prevent other writers from lifting material from my column and passing it off as their own. It's happening more and more.

Scripture Quoted To Prove Women Not Equal To Men

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Women's advocate Laura Sabia has gone through two elected municipal positions and some of the callers on her radio phone-in program offer her surprises she never knew as a former alderman and one-time separate school trustee.

One man quoted the scriptures to the effect that woman was put on earth to do the child-rearing and if she were equal to a man God would have made her in His own image.

Another caller, a woman, said she was "undermining the family unit . . . the way of life in Canada."

Some callers during her two-hour morning stint berate her for her "high" education, she said in an interview. It is these callers Mrs. Sabia believes would vehemently oppose her if she tried to enter federal politics.

The same people, she said with a sigh, refused to elect her mayor four years ago.

TOLD IT'S MAN'S JOB
"Friends told me being mayor was a job for a man, not a woman."

But the woman who couldn't get elected mayor was one of those most influential in persuading Ottawa to set up the royal commission on the status of women.

And despite what callers say, Mrs. Sabia is convinced she has paid her dues as a mother.

"Everybody's forgotten I've raised four children," she said. "I never worked in my life until I was 51 and it's three years now that I've been working."

Child-raising is not all that she has put behind her.

When all her children attended school, she ran for and got elected to the separate school board.

"I spent four years on it—I was learning and I was thinking and suddenly I realized we didn't need separate schools and saw I didn't believe in the system and so I left," she recalled.

Her public service career has veered to the area of women's rights and she believes she has established her credentials.

She served as an outspoken national president of the Canadian Federation of University Women and now is continuing her efforts through her National Ad Hoc Action Committee of 40 organizations to get women to insist on their rights.

Her immediate target is the telephone company, Bell Canada.

"There are 25,000 women working at Bell and you can't tell me they're all stupid women they employ. . . . There are 21 vice-presidents in Bell. I'd like to see some women up there."

This means, she says, giving Bell a hard time, if necessary, at its annual meeting next month in Montreal.

"I've taken on Bell," she said, and then warned: "My next fight is going to be with the banks."

MARCH

National Honey Month Time To Spread It Around

Honey is a delicious way to add sparkle to your menu! A natural sweet, it gives the instant energy so often needed in busy lives. The history and nutritive benefits of the oldest sweet known to mankind will prove interesting to you.

Honey is a natural, unrefined food, unique because it is the only unmanufactured sweet available in commercial quantities. In addition to its sugars, honey contains a considerable number of minerals, seven members of the B vitamin complex, ascorbic acid (vitamin C), dextrins, plant pigments, amino acids and other organic acids, traces of protein, esters and other aromatic compounds, and several enzymes.

Since 75 to 80 per cent of its composition is sugar, honey has an energy-producing value second to few foods. The important thing is the way in which honey provides the energy. Cane and beet sugars must be broken down into simpler sugars by digestive juices before they can be absorbed into the blood stream and assimilated into the tissues. These resulting simple sugars, dextrose and levulose, make up almost the entire sugar content of honey. As a result, little digestion of honey is necessary and absorption takes place quickly. This is one reason why honey is extremely popular among athletes of all types.

It produces virtually instant energy without putting any strain on the digestive system. All types of sportsmen use honey before and during competition for quick energy.

While there have been for many centuries (and still are) numerous health claims made for honey, much research will be necessary to prove or disprove its healthful properties. The best thing about the honey bee's product—it's so good!

TO MEASURE HONEY

Measure shortening first and then measure honey in the same measuring cup. Or try running hot water in the measuring cup first, then immediately measuring the honey.

To replace sugar with honey in your favorite recipe, the general rule is to reduce the amount of liquid $\frac{1}{4}$ cup for each cup of honey used to replace sugar.

ORANGE NUT BREAD

2 tbsp. shortening
1 cup honey
1 egg
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped nut meat

Cream the shortening and honey well. Add the beaten egg and orange rind. Sift the dry ingredients and add alternately with the orange juice. Add chopped nuts. Pour into greased loaf pan, the bottom of which has been lined with wax paper. Bake at 325 degrees F. for 1 hour or until the loaf is nicely browned and begins to shrink from the pan.

SEMI-SWEET HONEY STICKS

Sift together and set aside:
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups sifted flour
1 tsp. baking powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon

Blend well:
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup shortening
1 tsp. vanilla
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar

Beat in:
1 egg

Add:

$\frac{3}{4}$ cup honey alternately with flour mixture

Add:

1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate chips

Spread in greased pan 15 x 10 x 1 inch. Bake at 400 degrees F. for 12 minutes. Let cool then cut into squares.

CITRUS HONEY CARROTS

1 bunch carrots

Salt

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup melted butter or margarine

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup honey

$\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. grated orange peel

$\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. lemon peel

Wash and scrape carrots; cook in 1 inch of boiling salted water until crispy-tender; about 15 to 20 minutes. Drain. Blend melted butter, honey citrus peels. Pour over cooked carrots and place over low heat until carrots are thoroughly glazed. (If the peel is not desired just omit it.)

HONEY CHEESE CAKE

3 tbsp. butter
2 cups sieved cottage cheese
2 tbsp. sifted flour
1 tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup honey
3 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. lemon rind
4 eggs, separated
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup milk

Crumb Base for Cheese Cake:

2 cups crushed graham crackers
2 cups butter, melted
1 tsp. cinnamon
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup honey
Cream butter; blend in cottage cheese, flour, and salt. Beat in honey, lemon juice and rind.

Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Beat egg whites until stiff. Slowly add sugar; beat well until soft peaks form. Fold into cheese mixture. Blend in milk.

Combine all ingredients for crumb base. Press all but $\frac{1}{2}$ cup mixture firmly along bottom and sides of 12" x 8" x $\frac{1}{2}$ " pan.

Pour in filling; sprinkle with remaining crumb mixture. Bake in 350 F oven 1 hour. Chill for easier cutting.

Flirting Results In $250 Fine

HOUSTON, Tex. (Reuter)—The defendant in a civil court case tried to flirt with a woman juror Tuesday and wound up in jail for contempt of court.

Danny Faiwuszevich was sentenced to three days in jail and fined $250. The contempt-of-court judgment said that after being warned to stop trying to influence the jury with "facial grimaces, lip movements and soundless laughter," the defendant admitted he had met secretly with a female juror.

The defendant also lost out in the civil suit. Judgment was awarded to a brokerage firm which claimed he owed them more than $44,000.

KELOWNA BUCKAROO
Goalender Ron Bourcier is out to the test on a shot by an unidentified Chilliwack Bruin

During their B.C. Junior Hockey League confrontation Sunday night, Bucks' Brad Robson is partially hidden by the shooter as he tries to break up the play while another Bruin waits for a possible rebound at the corner of the net. Bucks and Bruins, battling for the fourth and final playoff berth, came out of the game in a 5-5 deadlock. (Courier Photo)

Hanson Picked Bucks' MVP Scores Twice In Deadlock

It was a night of personal triumph for Murray Hanson, as he scored two goals to lead Kelowna Bucks to a 5-5 draw with Chilliwack Bruins Sunday night.

Hanson, who assisted on one goal and was on the ice when Bucks scored a fourth tally, was presented with the trophy as CKOV's Most Valuable Player. Phil Blake was selected CKOV's Most Popular Player.

Kelowna B's Win Tourney

Kelowna Bantam B's captured top honors in a Merritt hockey tournament during the weekend, while the Bantam Reps were swept from the A side in two straight games.

B's trounced North Kamloops 6-1 in the final game to win the B side championship. They came back from an early 1-0 deficit for six straight goals to win going away.

Kevin Wolf led the scoring with three goals while Jack Blais scored singles. Kirby Kennedy replied for North Kam, who were tied 1-1 after the first period and trailed 5-1 after the second.

B's got off to a good start in the tourney by trouncing Clinton 11-2 and pounding the second Kamloops team 8-4. Wolf scored five times against Clinton and once against Kamloops.

First One Wanted For Title Second One Needed For Cash

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The conversation took place on the 18th fairway during Sunday's final round of the $150,000 Florida Citrus open golf tournament.

"When I won at Akron," loose and easy-going Jerry Heard said to Lee Trevino, "that's what I wanted to win. It was the first one. This time I want the money."

It was more than simple avarice on the part of the budding star from Visalia, Calif. He was in debt and pressing and admitted the financial problems had bothered his game.

He had a one-stroke lead at that stage, while he and Trevino waited to hit their second shots to the green on the final hole at Rio Pinar Country Club, and Heard used that picture swing to lift his shot to within about nine feet of the flag.

He rolled in the putt for a birdie three, a 69 and a two-stroke victory at 12 under par for first place—a check that solved the money worries.

NOW HE'S EVEN

"This will do it," the 24-year-old said. "I'm flat even. I can tell you it's a big load off my mind."

Bobby Mitchell, who bolted out of the pack with a slugging of five consecutive birdies on the back nine, closed with a 66 and second at 278.

Jim Jamieson, 70, and Leonard Thompson, 69, were next at 279 in the tightly-bunched field. Chris Blocker, who shared the lead at the end of three rounds, slipped to 73 and 280. He was tied with George Archer, Rod Funseth, Bob Murphy and Australian Bruce Crampton.

Hamilton Rink Senior Champs

George Hamilton's Kelowna tourstone and Irwin Studer of Kelowna battled down to the wire for the Annual Seniors Bonspiel crown at the Kelowna Curling Club, and Hamilton came out on top by the narrowest of margins.

Hamilton and Studer each won six games in the three-day 'spiel, recording 12 points each. Hamilton took points on 39 ends with Studer gaining on 37 to decide the champion.

Alec McQueen of Salmon Arm took third place over Earl Parsons of Kelowna and McCallum of Vernon, winning five games and taking 36 ends. Parsons claimed 33 ends and McCallum 31.

Sixth place went to Kelowna's Les Arnold, with nine points and 34 ends, and leading a number of rinks with four wins for eight points each. Jerry Lipsett of Kelowna led the way with eight points and 39 end won, while Albert Audet had eight points and won 34 ends.

Alf Ruffe of Kelowna, Bill Cumberland of Summerland and Ollott of Summerland each had four wins and 33 ends to round out the top rinks.

The 'spiel is for curlers 60 years of age and over, differing from the provincial competition leading to the Canadian championship, the Seagram Stone.

"Some sponsor! Just because I bowl a 109 game he takes back his shirt!"

Canada Wins Softball Title

MANILA (CP)—Canada won the third men's world softball championship Sunday night by defeating the United States 1-0 in 11 innings in a titanic final contest.

The Canadian team, the Richmond Hill Ont. Dynes, showed great pitching as it ousted New Zealand 1-0 in a semi-final Sunday and then topped the U.S. by the same score in a three-hour game.

Richard Haymes was the winning pitcher and batted in the lone run as Canada dethroned the U.S. It was sweet revenge for Canada, which lost 4-0 to the U.S. in the last game of the second championship in 1968 at Oklahoma City. The fourth championship will be held four years from now in New Zealand.

New Zealand finished third and Mexico fourth in this year's 10-team tournament played at Marikina, a hilly shoemakers' town about 10 miles east of this Philippine capital.

Canada had finished first in the preliminary round robin with an 8-1 record and the U.S. third with a 7-2 mark. To reach the final against Canada, the U.S. team defeated Mexico 5-0 and New Zealand 4-1 in Sunday's showdown games.

Russians Again Follow Script Skating Fraternity Wonders

CALGARY (CP) — The script was followed closely, the Russians went home with most of the medals and the international figure-skating fraternity was left wondering what's going to happen next year.

The five-day 1972 world figure-skating championships ended Saturday night with a Russian couple winning the dance competition. Russians also were first and second in the pairs and second and third in men's singles. The only event in which they didn't score was the women's singles.

Ondrej Nepela of Czechoslovakia is the 1972 men's singles champion. Trixi Schuba of Austria is the women's winner. Aleksei Ulanov and Irina Rodnina won the pairs and Ludmila Pakhomova and Aleksandr Gorshkov won the dance—all of them defending champions.

Second place in the men's competition went to Sergei Chervukhin of Russia while Karen Magnusson of Canada was second in women's. Ludmila Smirnova and Andrei Surailin of Russia were runners-up in pairs and Angelika and Erich Buck of West Germany were second in the dance.

U.S. GETS 3 BRONZE
Bronze medals went to Vladimir Kovalev of Russia in men's singles, Janet Lynn of the United States in women's, Jojo Starbuck and Kenneth Shelley of the U.S. in pairs and Judy Schowmeyer and James Sladky of the U.S. in the dance.

The big question facing figure-skating is the future of the Ulanov-Rodnina twosome.

Ulanov married Miss Smirnova shortly after the 1972 Winter Olympics at Sapporo, Japan, and there have been rumors he wants to skate with his wife instead of Miss Rodnina.

Such a split would deprive the team of a chance to become the first couple ever to win five championships. Five pairs have won four tournaments before this year's world championships.

The main problem, however, involves the International Skating union's rulebook. Rule 403 states that anyone who finishes in the top five in the world automatically gets to the next world championships. If Ulanov splits with Miss Rodnina he will be breaking up Russia's two top pairs and they theoretically would not be eligible next year.

SCHUBA RETIRES

The other major change coming up this season is caused by Miss Schuba's retirement after winning three world crowns. Until now, skating had been judged 50-50 on compulsory figures and free-skating but it will switch to a 60-40 emphasis on free-skating.

Weaker Teams Breaking Into Limelight In Battles For NHL Playoff Positions

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The top teams in the established East Division of the National Hockey League along with Chicago Black Hawks and Minnesota North Stars in the West grabbed most of the attention during the season.

But with the schedule drawing to a close, the weaker teams in both divisions are providing most of the excitement as they do battle with each other and the stronger teams to gain playoff berths.

Toronto Maple Leafs, in late-season struggle with Detroit Red Wings for the final playoff spot in the East, moved five points ahead of the Wings during the weekend by tying the North Stars 2-2 Sunday afternoon and edging California Golden Seals 2-1 Saturday.

In the West, where the final two playoff spots still are undecided, Pittsburgh Penguins indicated they are not yet ready to lie down by defeating the powerful Boston Bruins 6-4 Saturday night and playing them to a 4-4 tie Sunday night in Boston.

And California Golden Seals, in fourth place in the West, two points ahead of the Penguins, crushed New York Rangers 7-3, ending a 16-game unbeaten streak of the team that is second to Boston in the East.

In another game Sunday afternoon, Chicago edged the Red Wings 3-2, spoiling the ceremony which marked the official retirement of the jersey of Red Wing great Gordie Howe and moving the Wings farther away from a playoff berth.

In games Saturday, Chicago and Montreal Canadiens played to a 1-1 tie. New York beat Detroit 4-2; Los Angeles Kings downed Buffalo Sabres 5-3 and St. Louis Blues defeated Philadelphia Flyers 4-2.

The West with 59 points, two in another game Sunday afternoon, Chicago edged the Red Wings 3-2, spoiling the ceremony which marked the official retirement of the jersey of Red Wing great Gordie Howe and moving the Wings farther away from a playoff berth.

In games Saturday, Chicago and Montreal Canadiens played to a 1-1 tie. New York beat Detroit 4-2; Los Angeles Kings downed Buffalo Sabres 5-3 and

St. Louis Blues defeated Philadelphia Flyers 4-2.

The St. Louis win moved the team alone into third place in the West with 59 points, two ahead of the Flyers in fourth place, three ahead of fifth-place California and only five in front of Pittsburgh in sixth place. Los Angeles is last with 43 points.

The Maple Leafs, who have won six straight games and tied one since King Clancy took over as coach from the ailing John McLellan, got goals from North Stars' Ron Ellis Sunday. The North Stars' effort in the third period, came about six minutes after J. Parise glanced a shot off L. goalie Bernie Parent's pads, give the North Stars a 2-1 lead.

West Has The Rinks To Beat For Schoolboy 'Spiel Title

SCHUMACHER, Ont. (CP) — Mark McDonald, 17, sat on the bed in his little hotel room and said with his shy grin:

"It's the West we've really got to get out and beat."

And to most curlers here, the West, from Thunder Bay to the Pacific Ocean, posed the greatest threat to take the national title and Pepsi-Cola Trophy, emblematic of the Canadian schoolboy curling championship.

The 11-round championship, all in 10-end games, starts at 2:30 p.m. EST today with Ontario meeting its provincial rival Northern Ontario, Saskatchewan playing New Brunswick, Nova Scotia meeting Manitoba, and Alberta facing Quebec.

Prince Edward Island meets British Columbia while Newfoundland has the first bye.

McDonald's rink from Gananoque, Ont., is most experienced at this final, last year finishing with a 4-6 record.

His rink has Rick Fair, 18, Bill Fletcher, 17 and Randy Neal, 18.

The Northern Ontario rink, skipped by Doug Dufoe, 17, also has Jim Graves, 17, as vice; Shawn Campbell, 18, and Tom Johnson, 17, as lead. They curl out of Lakeview high school in Thunder Bay.

Saskatchewan is skipped by Jim Wilson, 18, from Aven Bowman high school in Saskatoon. He has Cam Hutchinson, 17, third; Terry Orr, 17, second and Norm Gilbertson, lead.

Another top challenger is Rick Neff's British Columbia rink from Nanaimo. He has Murray Norby, 18, third; Brian Cann, 17, second and lead Bob Smiley, 16.

LARGE SIGHTINGS

Scots Claim Two Monsters

LONDON (CP) — As if one famous monster were not enough for a country's tourist trade, the Scots now are laying claim to two.

Five "sightings" in the last 14 months of a creature similar to the elusive beast of Loch Ness are recorded in a report published by Survey Team set up in 1970 to investigate mysterious doings in Loch Morar, about 40 miles west of Loch Ness in Inverness County.

The witnesses variously described "two-hump sightings," a prolonged sighting of a humped back, head and neck, and two sightings of unexplained wakes apparently caused by a submerged animal," says the Loch Morar Survey report.

One of the wakes was seen at close range by a team member, a biologist who was out on the loch in a boat. The other was seen by a local boatman whom the team describes as previously "a confirmed skeptic concerning reports of the Morar 'monster'."

The survey, carried out by university students and supported largely by donations, has accepted 33 sightings of the Morar monster, nicknamed "Morag".

Rumors of its presence go back to 1887 and it is said the loch may harbor a whole family of monsters.

Further grist for the Morag dossier has come from Lord Glendevon, a former under-secretary of state for Scotland, who recalls a fishing trip in 1931 when his trout rod was dragged from his hands and snapped in two by an "appallingly heavy" submerged creature.

"Whatever the animal was, its enormous weight prevented me from being able to lift up the rod at all," says Lord Glendevon in a written statement to the survey.

The survey team plans to use sonar underwater equipment later this year in search of Morag. Loch Morar is 12 miles long, more than 1,000 feet deep in places and once was an arm of the sea.

WINS PILL AWARD

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (AP) — A Long Island woman who has given nasal decongestant tablets instead of birth-control pills by a druggist has been awarded $29,000 in damages. A jury awarded the sum Friday to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kuhns who had sued for $6 million after Mrs. Kuhns became pregnant and delivered a boy. The druggist said he misread the physician's handwriting.

Perrault Says PM And Premiers Should Start Working Together

BURNABY, B.C. (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and the 10 Canadian premiers should begin to work together and stop exchanging "vilification and abuse," says Burnaby-Seymour MP Ray Perrault.

Mr. Perrault made the statement Saturday following his unopposed renomination to contest the riding for the Liberals in the next federal election.

Later in an interview, he said Mr. Trudeau's recent labelling of Premier W. A. C. Bennett as a "bigot" will not cost the party votes in B.C. in the next election.

"The remark will take its place in the long history of colorful language used by B.C. politicians," he said.

Mr. Perrault said there were undoubtedly provocations on both sides but added:

"There are more important issues facing Canada than what Trudeau thinks about Bennett, or what Bennett thinks about Trudeau."

He said the prime problem ahead of Canada is retention of national unity, and called for co-operation among all levels of government, regardless of political affiliation, because: "We're not out of the woods (of separatism) yet."

SIMPSON'S SEARS

If you think you can't have luxury broadloom until the kids are older, think again! Wool-soft Servicetwist II is kidproof. Saves you $120 on 3-room coverage too.*

*40 sq. yds., enough to carpet the average living room, dining room and hall.

Wait no longer for your beautiful broadloom. You can get it today in Servicetwist II, the luxury carpet we designed with your kids in mind. We put 20% nylon in the nylon-Acrlan blend to give rugged durability and make Servicetwist II a natural for hard-wear areas such as stairs, hallways and kitchen. We heat set the handsome texture to make sure it stays in and gives years of additional wear. Double jute backing adds strength so rough 'n tumble won't show. It's mothproof, non-allergenic. And spills and stains just wipe up, little accidents are nothing to worry about.

Yet, tough as it is, we also made Servicetwist II lovely enough to enhance living and dining room. The 20% nylon is blended with 80% Acrlan for that toe-tompling showpiece richness you demand. 6 fashion colours let you choose the perfect background for entertaining. And at a saving of $3 sq. yd., it's the best friend your broadloom budget ever had. So don't miss our giant 5 day sale. Just remember, no family is ever too young for Servicetwist II.
